FinCEN Customer Due Diligence Beneficial Ownership Rules

New system functionality has been created to help you comply with new procedures mandated by the United States Department of the Treasury Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN).

Fields added at the customer level to identify legal entities and beneficial owners.

End-of-Year 2017 enhancement.

Note

- The United States Department of the Treasury Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN) has created new regulatory procedures as part of their anti-money laundering compliance program.
- Covered institutions are required to establish and maintain written procedures reasonably designed to identify and verify the identities of beneficial owners of legal entity customers, which are subject to certain exclusions and exemptions.

What is a Legal Entity?

- Examples include:
 - Corporations
 - Limited-liability companies
 - Limited partnerships
 - General partnerships
 - Business trusts
 - Any other entity created by a filing with a state office, or any other entity created in this way
 - Similar entities formed under the laws of other countries

What is a Beneficial Owner?

- An individual who owns 25 percent or more of the equity interest of a legal entity, or an individual who has significant responsibility to control, manage, or direct a legal entity.
